

REPORT ON COMMITTEE ACTION

SRI Committee -- The Committee has contacted SRI employees who are gathering to discuss issues raised by the Coalition as well as problems they face as employees, i.e., problems of political suppression by the management. The Committee is very interested in making the Coalition information available to all SRI employees; however, at this time, it seems more important that the employees move on their own. Therefore we will not attempt to leaflet at this time. We will meet Monday with representatives of the SRI group.

Industrial Park Committee -- The Committee has contacted an employee of Varian Electronics who is going to form a seminar there. The leaflet to be handed out at lunch and as the employees leave has been written and printed. A committee meeting to consider acceptance of the leaflet was held in the Malcolm X Room (formerly Rambo's office) Sunday afternoon. Those interested in leafleting should meet on Monday at 10:00 in the Malcolm X Room.

Community Liason Committee -- The Committee has leafleted downtown Palo Alto shopping districts, movie theaters, street intersections, churches. Seven ministers have invited congregations to the sit-in, especially yesterday's tea and symposium. The 1st Presbyterian Church is holding a panel discussion on ethical and social problems surrounding scientific research and national defense, in particular as this applies to our current movement.

Life Sciences Caucus -- The ~~GENE~~ group met Sunday at 1:00.

Guidelines Committee -- The Review Board Council and Review Board and Guidelines Committee met today together to consider guidelines revisions. Harry Cleaver and Steve Weissman discussed the forthcoming minority report of the SRI, and it was agreed to incorporate certain salient features into the guidelines, particularly a more detailed explicitation of the political nature of research now being done at Stanford and SRI, and the political orientation we desire. Revisions were presented at last evening's meeting. A fuller explanation of the relation of our demands and guidelines to basic principles of academic freedom is being written. The Review Board will be more clearly asked to be responsible for regular publications of abstracts and contracts proposed. The word 'exception' will be deleted from the sections on classified research and an appeals process substituted. The Committee met last night at 9:30, and caucuses will meet in Trisidder Monday at 4:15 to discuss positive research proposals in the various disciplines.

Press Committee -- The central organization of the Press Committee is the April 3 Movement News Service on the second floor, which handles press relations 24 hours a day, and also attempts to facilitate communication within the community here. Groups holding meetings are asked to post times and places on the bulletin board at second floor headquarters and also in the Eldridge Cleaver Lounge (Room 224). The Committee needs the following sorts of workers: receptionist, interviewers, reporters, writers, typists, crowd estimators. If interested, please come to the desk and contact Barb Hyland, Chris Freeman, or Barry Capron.

Social Sciences Caucus -- We have arranged for different people in each department to begin organizing within their departments to collect information on the research proposed and presently being done. We still need someone to head the sub-caucus in psychology. Otherwise see the following people for their respective departments if you are interested and would like to help. Meetings will be arranged later in the week.

Food Committee -- We need girls to bake cookies and like that in Hoskins. Call 326-7611 for Cindy if you can help.

Dorms Committee -- The Committee met yesterday morning, passed out leaflets and established an informal phone tree. Proposals were introduced for discussing the issues in dorms, fostering alternative actions for those not sitting-in and who would otherwise do nothing. Meetings daily at 4:30 on the lawn.

AFT -- This group met yesterday at 5:15 to formulate their proposal: 1) endorsement of all demands, 2) endorsement of the sit-in, 3) encouragement of all faculty members to hold classes at AEL ,

Women's Liberation -- Established co-operative child care center (free meals provided) so that there is no need to stay away from AEL because of family needs.

Department Organization -- A loose structure was established to keep professors, instructors, and graduate students informed, supplied with literature, and encouraged to turn classes to discussions of the issues and our actions.

Medical Committee -- A First Aid Seminar by Chuck McAllister is tentatively scheduled in the Malcolm X Room. Time to be announced.

Committee of Correspondence -- The Committee needs people to post handbills write letters in quantity to trustees, students, employees, etc. urging support of demands and action to that end.
