LABOR-STUDENT SYMPOSIUM

On June 27, 200 people from the labor and the university communities met at Stanford for a symposium sponsored jointly by the Santa Clara County Central Labor Council and the Stanford Medical Community for Peace. Union members and officials, professors, and students discussed the negative effects of U.S. foreign policy at home and abroad, as well as some of the components of our present domestic crises, specifically, failures in the economy, in health care delivery, and in the political system.

The outcome was encouraging. Participants decided to work together to create a labor-student coalition to better achieve the common goals of both groups. The most immediate goal is to end the war in Southeast Asia and to make it impossible for the U.S. to again become involved in an illegal and immoral war. Other goals are to design programs for converting from a military to a peacetime economy, and to develop better health care systems. To implement these proposals, a permanent committee of labor and university representatives has been formed and is meeting regularly.

CONGRESSMEN TO ATTEND MOVEMENT FOR A NEW CONGRESS BARBEQUE

NEW FILM NOW AVAILABLE

Arrangements to view the new Schoenbrun film may be made with Susan Jens, ext. 6061.

GETTING THE WORD OUT

Stopping the war is the only serious answer for the economic problems that beset the country. That is the theme of a statement that will soon be circulated to Bay Area workers, union officials as well as rank and file people. The statement, along with the names of all who sign it, is intended for publication in the San Francisco Chronicle on Labor Day.

RALLY FOR I-J STRIKERS

Cesar Chavez will lead a march in San Rafael on Saturday, July 25, which has widespread support from organized labor. The Independent-Journal has been on strike for six months. Those from Stanford going to the rally are urged to meet in Tresidder parking lot at 8 A.M. on July 25.

BUT WE HAVE TO MAKE TANKS...

As an outgrowth of the labor-student conference, plans are being made to try to establish a working committee of management and union people at a particular local plant to study the way in which production of military equipment can stop and be replaced by other kinds of goods.

HANDBOOK ON THE WAR

Do you find yourself at a loss for facts when discussing the Indochina War? If you do, we may be able to help. The best of the great mass of articles about the situation in Southeast Asia have been combined into a handbook published by students, faculty and staff at U.C. Berkeley. Articles on history, economics, law, and ecology were written by experts in these fields at Berkeley, Stanford, and Cornell. The Handbook on the War in Asia is available at the Nerve Center for 50¢.
