Sponsored by the law school community

From: Law School steps

To: Palo Alto City Hall

Assemble: Friday 11:30

The Stanford Law School community will conduct a peaceful protest march on Friday, May 12 against the recent escalation of the Vietnamese War by President Nixon.

The marchers will meet in front of the law school at 11:30 on Friday. The march will leave the law school at 12:00, and proceed down Palm Drive through downtown Palo Alto to the Palo Alto City Plaza. At the City Hall Plaza there will be a brief rally.

Monitors will accompany the march, and the Palo Alto police have granted a permit.

The law school community (students, faculty, and staff) considers this march of primary importance as a visible demonstration of our opposition to the new American aggression in Indochina.
